

Day Is Done

Or...Is it just beginning?

What new horizons are calling out to you?
Or what challenges have you finally laid to rest?

What new adventure is just beyond the trees,
or what promises to yourself have you completed?

Life exists with US in it, and the flow will either carry us along or desert us, leaving it to ourselves to find a way back onto the path.

The choice is yours.

Dreaming your way into a new day opens the path to new opportunities and ideas,
and is just as soul satisfying as acknowledging your accomplishments, blessings and importance at day's end.

Remember that all moments are fleeting,
so make the most of every one that you have left!

